ASSASSINATION PLOT TRIAL HALTED BY ATTEMPTED MURDER

Men Charged With Complicity in Murder of Rathenau Poisoned by Typhus Bacilli in Box of Candy Sent Them From Berlin—Two Will Probably Die.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Leipzig, Oct. 7.—The trial of Warnicke, Guenther and three others charged with complicity in the assassination plot against the late Dr. Walter Rathenau, German foreign secretary, was suddenly halted today by illness of the defendants who had been poisoned with typhus bacilli contained in a box of candy sent from Berlin.

Warnicke and Guenther probably will die. The others had eaten less of the candy and were not so ill. The package of chocolates, postmarked Berlin, was received by Guenther last night. He believed that it had been sent by some friend as it had been mailed from the German jail where Guenther had been interned before being brought to Leipzig for trial. Guenther opened the box and passed it around to his fellow prisoners.

The authorities say that the motive was either vengeance or fear. It is known that there has been anxiety in "certain high circles" for fear that some of the defendants, notably Guenther, would involve prominent men in the Rathenau plot.

NEW NEAR EAST AGREEMENT MADE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Lord Curzon, British foreign minister and Premier Poincare of France reached an agreement at their conference on the Turkish-Greece situation here today that Greece would evacuate Thrace and that two conferences will be called on the Near East situation.

One of the conferences will be held at Scutari before November 10 at which the terms of the peace settlement will be agreed on.

The second conference will be held by a committee of the League of Nations to settle the question of the status of the straits.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

This week found two more of the clubs of the local high school reorganized. There was a meeting of the members of the Athletic Association Monday, at which time a nominating committee was elected. This committee is to pick several people to run for the various elective offices in the association. The ballot is nearly ready and the election will be held some time next week. The offices to be filled by election are president, vice-president, secretary and two cheer leaders, one boy and one girl.

The Webster-Hayne recently held its first meeting. Due to the president's resignation, a new head had to be elected. Solomon Roodney was chosen for president. The executive committee has begun work and is planning to hold the first trial debate the eighteenth of this month. The two teams chosen for the debate are Faranacci Corregan, leader, Gordon Barnes and Philip Fleisher, leader, and Westbrook Stelle, leader, Pennington and Boyle for the other. The topic of the debate will be, "Resolved, That strikes in industries essential to the life of the people should be prohibited by law." Corregan's team will support the negative and Stelle's the affirmative.

The officers of the Latin Club for this year are, Solomon Roodney, president, Anna Gassoul, vice-president, and Harold Taylor, secretary and treasurer. The senior class met Friday to elect the three additional members of the executive committee. These also, by the Rev. Michael Larkin, three together with the officers already elected formed the executive committee of the organization. The three elected yesterday are, Kenneth LeFevre, Francis Davenport and Ethel Schaeffer.

Friday morning the regular Friday assembly program was begun. Miss Carter has been busy getting the members of the senior class lined up to make their appearance in assembly, and yesterday morning the first four appeared. The program was one on O. Henry. The first speaker, Clayton Hillson, outlined the life of O. Henry. Percy Deyo was next speaker, and he took up the story of "Jeff Davis, Personal Magnet," a story of the days when fables were as plentiful in the west as holes in the lower Broadway pavement are now in Kingston. Next, Frederick Coe gave the story of "A Busy Brokers Romance," a story which called many hearty laughs from the audience. "Criticism by Miss Anna Deyo, the composition being criticism on the works of the author. All the speakers delivered their addresses well. They were exceptionally good in clearness. The manner in which the entire four numbers were given speaks only the best for Miss Carter's work as instructress of public speaking.

Minneapolis, L. I., Oct. 7.—William M. Creasy, convicted of the murder of Miss Edith Laver, his sweetheart, was sentenced by Judge Smith in Nassau county court today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing during the week of November 6.

A Chicken Pie-Supper.
The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will hold a chicken pie supper at the church on December 6.

Society Notes

Colwell-Van Wageningen.

Assemblyman and Mrs. S. B. Van Wageningen of Sleightsburg announce the marriage of their daughter Pauline Louise, to Hollis W. Colwell of Worcester, Mass., on October 2, 1922, at St. Paul's Church, Englewood, N. J. Mr. Colwell is a graduate of St. Stephen's College, class of 1921, and is now studying at the Theological Seminary, New York.

Sutton-Decker.
A very pretty wedding was celebrated on Thursday, September 28, at 1 o'clock, when Miss Luella Decker of Platekill became the wife of Granville Sutton of Unionville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Lyons of Modena and took place at the bride's home near Modena. The bridesmaid was Miss Edna Sutton, a sister of the groom. Miss Dorothy Van Duser played the wedding march. Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sutton left for Kingston.

Their 25th Anniversary.
Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dawe were agreeably surprised when they returned to their home, No. 267 Hasbrouck avenue, to find the house in possession of their friends who had gathered to help them celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The evening was delightfully spent with games and music and at a late hour a banquet was served. Mr. and Mrs. Dawe received a number of appropriate gifts. At an early hour this morning the guests departed wishing them many more happy anniversaries. Mr. Dawe is the popular conductor on the Kingston City Division of the trolley road.

Fagan-Nichols.
Mary Elizabeth Nichols, daughter of James Cameron Nichols of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Gerald Allen Fagan of Kingston were united in marriage October 6 at the rectory of St. Gabriel's Church, New Rochelle, by the Rev. Michael Larkin, formerly of Kingston. A reception followed at the Wykagil Country Club which was largely attended by the families and friends of the newly married couple. Miss Virginia B. Nichols, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Cathryn D. Schmid and Miss Larchmont, N. Y., and Miss Jane Gibson of Canton, Ohio. The groom's best man was Harry R. Connors of Pelham Manor, N. Y., and the ushers were Richard F. Lenahan of Athens, N. Y., and Thomas S. Dwyer of Kingston. The wedding presents were numerous and costly. The bride is a graduate of Steward Hall, Staunton, Va., and is most popular in the social circles of New Rochelle. The groom who is well known in Kingston, was attached to the Naval Aviation Service during the World War and is now associated with the Schoonmaker-Connors Company and their various interests. Mr. and Mrs. Fagan sail from New York today and will spend their honeymoon abroad.

Terwilliger's Bicycle Stolen.
Earl Terwilliger of Port Ewen reported to the police Friday that his bicycle was stolen from the high school, and gave a description of

ONLY TEN SPACES ARE LEFT IN KINGSTON'S BIG EXHIBITION

Nine Have Been Taken Since Friday—Perfect Child Contest Developing Great Interest—Early Takers of Space Apply for Additional Room as Value of Show Becomes Apparent.

The drawing for location of spaces?

was held as planned Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. A large gathering of subscribers shows the great interest that they are taking to make the Kingston Exposition a maximum success. Everyone left after they had located their various spaces with the feeling that the drawing plan had proven a great success. While only a few spaces are more valuable than others, due to the advantage of all being on one floor with broad straight aisles, everyone had an equal chance to get those favored locations.

The Exposition is moving along largely now on its own momentum and because its real value is better understood. The spaces remaining are being sold rapidly and it is quite apparent that before the opening day every foot of space will be sold and there will likely be some procrastinators who will be disappointed.

Since publication Friday of the exhibitors, the following have taken space:

Ard Don Company, wholesale plumbing supplies.
A. Hymes, shoe dealer.
Up-to-Date Company, ladies' garments.
Decker & Fowler, insurance agents.
Forsyth & Davis, two spaces, stationers.
Everett & Treadwell, additional space for John Corney's goods.
Schultz & Bogart, insurance agents.
Dwyer Bros., wholesale and retail paints.
Rose-Gorman-Rose, additional space.

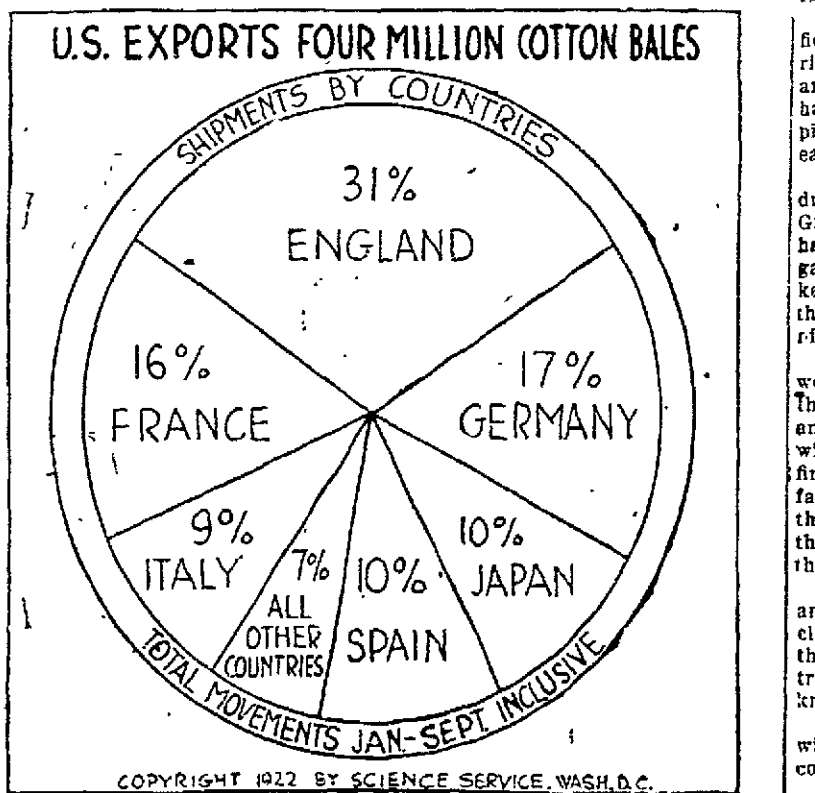

There are not over 10 spaces left now. Who is going to get them? The Perfect Child Contest is developing into the biggest thing of its kind ever held here. All children living in Ulster county are eligible. The following have entered since Friday noon:

Raymond H. Semon, 56 Grand street.
Jimmie Millard, 74 Main street.
Ruth Muncy, Binnewater.
George A. Burgher, 210 West O'Reilly street.
Hugo Schroeder, 43 Elmendorf street.
Charles and Amelia Wolfersheim, 41 Hudson street.
Anita Hoffman, 143 Henry street.
Anna Parker, 107 Highland avenue.
Helen M. Winchell, 71 Crown street.
Dorothy Winchell, 71 Crown street.
August O. Stending, Jr., 42 Hurley avenue.
Arlene M. Jennings, 84½ Downs street.

Johnson Batters Martin.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 7.—Floyd Johnson, the battling heavyweight from Iowa has moved up several notches in pugilistic ranks today as the result of his victory over Bob Martin, the A. E. F. champion at Madison Square Garden last night. Johnson battered Martin so badly that his manager, Scotty Monteith, tossed in the sponge in the tenth round.

Dublin, Oct. 7.—A band of armed men today seized two youths, carried them four miles outside the city in a motor car and shot them to death. The bodies were left by the roadside.

BUSINESS DAY 69 DAY as the Government sees it PREPARED BY RALPH F. COUCH

RAINY DAY WILL RELIEVE HUGGINS

May Give Opportunity to Rally Demoralized Yanks—Odds Five to One on Giants—Rumor Mongers Busy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 7.—Miller Huggins is not likely to rush through the streets in maniacal frenzy, biting strangers upon the leg, if the fourth game of the World Series today is declared void, as early today seemed possible. The good Miller will welcome the respite, promised by a suggestion of rain in the air several hours before the scheduled start of the game.

He needs every moment now for the business of rallying his distracted Yankees who have played through the first three games of the series with only a tie score, a batting average of .194 and a lot of acrimonious clubhouse conversation to show for their pains.

The Yanks, on the surface of things are a beaten ball club, going nowhere in particular and taking considerable time to do it, as it their wont. Their pitchers cannot stop the Giant hitters but that is beyond the point. The Yanks cannot hope to win all games by getting only nineteen hits in three games and on the quality of pitching Scott and Nehf have turned in, the Huggins entry might very easily toss off the series in four official games.

Professional gamblers who know their odds as the tailor knows his flat iron, have laid a price of five to one against the Yankees for the remainder of the series. They are not worth that much of any man's money, for they must win four of the remaining five games to come down in front and such a thing is hardly credible in the face of the laudable condition of the Giant staff of pitchers.

Many pro-Yankees among the baseball men here are pulling for Huggins to pitch Carl Mays against the Giants today, in the event that the heavy fog lifts. Mays is one of the money pitchers in baseball, and although he has had a bad year, that peculiar underling delivery of his might get him by.

But Huggins is a single track, narrow gauge thinker and having made up his mind some days in advance of the series, that he would use Bush, Shawkey and Hoyt in order, he probably will see no reason why he should change it now. It would be Bush today in the ordinary sequence of events, but Bush was treated none too kindly by the Giants his first time out.

Late last night Huggins was warring between Mays and Bush. He was still at it this morning and probably will not know his own mind until a few minutes before the game.

The incident of the game called on account of darkness having been forgotten, the fourth capacity crowd in many days was anticipated this afternoon, but lugubrious weather may cancel the crowd. There is no "hundreds of faithful clamoring at the gates" this morning for the simple reason that it is one of those dark occasions best likened to a wet blanket.

The official forecast is cloudy and cooler today; showers tonight. It looks as though the evening's schedule may anticipate itself.

Having nothing better to do on a foggy day, the rumor-mongers have been right busy this morning spreading their stuff. One of these reports had the players of both clubs complaining to Judge Landis about the receipts of the second game being turned over to charity in toto. The alleged complaint was said to have been made during a meeting of the teams in the Giant clubhouse after yesterday's game. The story proved to be a canard.

It was also rumored that when Ruth came into the Giant quarters for the meeting, the trouble that had ensued which he crashed into Heinle Groh at third base during the game, was resumed after a manner more blasé than vocal. It was said that Ruth had aimed a punch at the nearest and most convenient jaw as he stepped through the doorway.

According to those present, nothing could be further from the truth. There was no fight, no argument, merely a little semi-friendly spoofing. Frank Frisch having the final word when he suggested that he would be willing to take on the Babe provided the latter agree to make 13 pounds ringside.

The Giants of course are a confident, cocky crowd today. They are riding high on the crest of the wave, and unless the Yanks can begin manhandling some of McGraw's best pitchers, the series will end in an early and abrupt manner.

The Yankee ineptitude to date is due as much to weak hitting as to Giant pitching. Jess Barnes may have had something in Thursday's game but if he did, the matter was kept a profound secret. Yet he held the Yanks to three runs in ten innings.

Scott and Nehf on the contrary, were good enough to beat any team in the land. Nehf will be back today; and very possibly Hugh McQuillan will step into the box score for the first time tomorrow. In spite of the fact that he carried the Yanks to a three-all tie in ten innings, it is thought that Barnes is through for the series, except as a relief pitcher.

After yesterday's defeat Huggins and Col. Puppert, president of the club held a lengthy conference in the Yankee club house but what transpired has not been made known.

"We are still in there fighting and will fight to the last ditch," was the conventional statement of Huggins. "The series is not over yet, not

ONLY DRY SHIPS IN U. S. PORTS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Attorney General Daugherty gave to President Harding Friday an official opinion which bars all intoxicating liquors from American ships, wherever they may be, and prohibits foreign ships from touching American ports or territorial waters with liquors aboard, whether bonded, sealed or otherwise kept from use or distribution.

The decision is the most far-reaching yet made under the Eighteenth amendment. It operates to:

1. Prevent Shipping Board vessels from selling or transporting liquor even between foreign ports.

2. Prevent privately owned American ships from selling or transporting liquor, no matter where they may be.

3. Prevent foreign ships from selling or transporting liquor in American territorial waters.

4. Prevent any foreign ship carrying liquor even as ship stores from touching at any American port for any purpose.

The last inhibition also makes it impossible for a foreign vessel carrying liquors to put into Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam or the Philippines. The Panama Canal is exempted by the Volstead act.

President Harding issued immediate instructions to Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board to stop the sale and transportation of liquor on Shipping Board vessels and to Secretary Mellon to notify all private owners of American ships and to promulgate the necessary notice and regulations for foreign ships.

ISRAEL SAYS THAT LONG, STRUCK HIM: OTHER CASES

Assault Case Adjourned Until Thursday Morning.

Robert Long was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by Benjamin Israel of 528 Broadway, charging Long with assault in the third degree in striking Israel on the face and body. Long, when arraigned before Judge Groves, entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned until Thursday morning. Long furnished cash bail for his appearance at that time.

L. F. Wanner was arrested Friday by Officer Martin on a charge of parking his car with the left hand side of the machine to the curb on Fair street. Wanner, who lives in New York, gave bail for his appearance later.

Isaac Levine of Ellenville was arrested Friday by Officer Soper on a charge of speeding. He gave bail for his appearance later.

THREE TRAMPS MADE BOICE STONE YARD THEIR HOME

Home Raided Friday by Officers Fout and Fatum.

Friday afternoon Officers Fout and Fatum made a raid on the old Hewitt Boice stone yard in Higginsville and arrested three tramps, Donald McKay, Peter Hoffman and John Wallace. The trio had been making their home in the stone yard and complaints had been received from neighbors by the police. This morning Judge Groves gave the trio one hour to leave Kingston.

Big Fire in Dunkirk.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Fire, sweeping unchecked through the business blocks at Main and East Third streets, gutted several buildings and did damage estimated at more than $100,000 early today. A garage containing fourteen automobiles and one horse was destroyed with its contents. Guests at the St. Nicholas Hotel camped in their night attire.

English Actress Dead.

London, Oct. 7.—Marie Lloyd, noted English comedienne died today.

by a long shot. My club hasn't started to hit the ball in the expected manner, but while there's life, there's hope. I don't know whether to start Mays in the fourth game or bring Bush back. I have both available and both are anxious to get the assignment."

The probable batting order of the teams today follows:

Yankees—Wirt, center field; Dugan, third base; Ruth, right field; Pipp, first base; R. Meusel, left field; Schapp, catcher; Ward, second base; E. Scott, short stop; Bush or Mays, pitcher.

Giants—Bancroft, short stop; Groh, third base; Frisch, second base; E. Meusel, left field; Young, right field; Kelly, first base; Cunningham, center field; Snyder, catcher; Nehf, pitcher.

Umpires: Owens, at the plate; Klem, at first base; Hildebrand, at second base; McCormick, at third base.

Starting time 2 p. m.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 7.—Foreign shipping companies may cease to call at New York and other United States ports because of the ruling of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty at Washington, that no ship carrying liquor may enter the three-mile limit of the American coast, it was reported today.

Halifax or some other Canadian port may be substituted for New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

At the foreign office, it was stated that the American ruling was "in accordance with international law and perfectly correct and logical in a legal sense," but foreign office officials laconically commented:

"It will be a long journey for American tourists to go to Halifax."

Washington, Oct. 7.—A flood of international complications, the seriousness and extent of which officials did not care to speculate on today, is confidently expected to follow the governments' sweeping decision that no booze of any sort under any flag, may come into the ports of these dry United States.

An immediate and world-wide howl of protest is anticipated by government officials from President Harding down to the customs agents and dry cluings whose duty it will be to try to enforce the unprecedented order. Officials took the position today, however, that congress framed the law so as to give the executive branch of the government no other alternative and it is now up to congress to change the law, if it wants it changed.

Orders were dispatched by the United States Shipping Board today to cease immediately the sale of all liquor on all boats flying the American flag. As for the foreign ships, nothing will be done toward enforcing the order until the treasury experts figure out a way to apply the "ships that touch liquor, shall not touch our ports," decree.

A. L. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, who has consistently fought for the right of American liners to dispense liquor took a gloomy view of the situation today. If the order "sticks" and is upheld by the United States supreme court where it presently will be tested, Lasker has vision of the decline of the great American cruise. He says the great liners that now port in New York, Boston, Seattle and Portland, going instead to Montreal, Halifax and Vancouver, with the consequent decrease in business in those American ports.

"The American merchant marine is immediately put at a great disadvantage," he observed disconsolately. "Foreign ships will continue to sell liquor and will be preferred. If they can't touch American ports with it, they will go elsewhere, or dodge the provisions by some means or another."

Great Britain and France are expected to be the loudest of the foreign nations in their howls against the new American order. The great British and French liners that go in to New York and Boston and the Japanese liners that port in Portland, Seattle and San Francisco, do a thriving bar business and their governments are prepared to back them to the hilt—as already proven by the protests in the state department.

Numerous ways in which the foreigners might beat the game were being suggested today. The most feasible one was that the big liners like the Cunard and French might maintain heavy lighters outside the three-mile limit to which the liners could transfer their liquors stores just before coming, picking them up again on the outward passage.

In dry quarters the new order was hailed with delight. Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, was triumphant. He issued a formal statement congratulating the government.

Among dry congressmen, up for re-election, the order was also well received. Republican drys have had to stand a lot of sniping from wet Democrats in some congressional districts over the fact that the Republican administration was in the liquor business on the high seas and they were nervous over its effect on the dry vote.

In at least two states where the wet and dry issue figures prominently in this year's senatorial election—Ohio and New Jersey—the order is expected to benefit the Republican candidate.

In New Jersey, Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican, is running as a bone dry candidate against Gov. Edward I. Edwards, who confesses himself as "wet as the Atlantic Ocean."

In Ohio Representative Simeon Fess (Republican), the senatorial candidate, is an Anti-Saloon League dry opposed to Senator Atlee Pomerene, Democrat, who has distinctly moist leanings.

Japs Arrest An American.

Tokio, Oct. 7.—R. M. Andrews, a leading American merchant, has been arrested by the Japanese authorities charged with espionage, it was announced today. The American ambassador has taken up the case and requested a special investigation.

YOUR CAR DEMANDS PROTECTION OF A SUBSTANTIAL STRUCTURE

A Simple, Inexpensive Two-Car Garage Constructed of Concrete Blocks.

The amount of money invested in the average automobile or motor truck justifies a substantial garage that will afford the required protection against water, theft and fire. In addition, to the fire hazard common to other buildings, garages have a peculiar hazard of their own due to the presence of oil and gasoline necessary to operation making it highly desirable to build the garage out of some non-combustible material.

Construction of Garage.

This has been done in the case of the garage shown in the illustration where concrete is the construction material. In building a garage of this kind excavation for the foundation is made to a depth of two or three feet. A footing of concrete is put in place this footing being about 18 inches wide and 8 or 10 inches thick. The foundation wall can be continued to the ground line in monolithic construction if desired or else block can be used laying them up in cement mortar for the sake of durability. The block construction is then continued up leaving door openings of adequate width and height and making provision for such windows as are necessary. A fire resistant roof, preferably of concrete shingles or roofing tile, tops the structure.

Concrete Floor Needed.

Every garage should have a concrete floor. This may be of one course construction, four inches in thickness being amply adequate. It should slope either toward the doorway or toward some point provided with a drain so that the water used in washing the car may be easily and quickly carried away.

POOR DRIVERS WASTE POWER

Much of the Difficulty in Hill Climbing in High Gear May Be Averted.

GIVE CAR SPEED AT START

Rough Places to Be Avoided, Since Every Bounce of the Wheels Means Certain Loss of Momentum—Don't Cut Curves

Much of the difficulty in hill climbing in high gear is due to unnecessary wasting of power by incompetent driving. Many a driver 'kills' his engine on a long grade simply because he does not give the car enough speed at the bottom and thus encourages overheating by denying the engine the advantage of the additional draft of cool air which is available at higher car speeds. Frequently this type of hill does not appear particularly steep, and the consequence is the driver does not feed enough gas, allowing the engine to run too slow, to struggle and eventually overheat.

A source of lost power in hill climbing which is too often overlooked is the bouncing of the wheels over a rough road. Every bounce of a wheel that is driving means a loss of momentum due to frictional splashing. The solution to this is to give attention to avoiding the holes in the road or feeding less gas for an instant while riding over an unavoidable rough place.

A lot of drivers imagine they are gaining momentum by pushing over the rough places but they would accomplish more by taking it easier. Unless the throttle is closed momentarily while the wheels are going over a very rough spot with the car in second gear the machine will oftentimes come almost to a standstill.

The practice of cutting curves when there is no danger in doing so has led to the habit of taking the short cut around curves when hill climbing.

This accounts for the 'lost power' of many a motor because the grade of the inner side of the curve is always greater than that of the outer side. The driver who in hill climbing keeps to the outer edge of curves—provided they are not dangerous—gives his engine the 'same sort of advantage' Dobbin used to enjoy when his owner helped him up hills by criss crossing from one side of the road to the other. In hill climbing an apparently inconsequential thing will often make the difference between making it to 'high' or resorting to 'second'. Keeping on the crown of the road is just one of these determining factors. The driver who keeps getting off into the gutter or ditch unnecessarily increases the road grade when he again tries to steer upon the crown. In hill climbing, every little thing counts. The point is to know what these points are.

GEAR OILING IS IMPORTANT

Correct Lubrication Lengthens Life of Car and Develops Higher Engine Power

Besides lengthening the useful life of a car, correct gear lubrication makes it handle more easily, the gears shift more quietly and deliver a higher percentage of engine power. Attention to the gear boxes is much worth while. Great cars and power are expensive, but proper lubrication is cheap.

But It Had to Be Wound.

A typical, spectacled, absent minded savant from an eastern university was a member of a geological survey outfit in Arizona. One morning he found that his watch was at a dead stop and would not respond to shaking, rattling gently on the tent pole or any other stimulus. It was a fine chronometer movement, and the party was dependent on it for some of its observations, so they sent the old professor and a keeper thirty miles by wagon to a little town where there was a watchmaker. The watchmaker screwed the usual little tail-light into his eye, gouged open the case, explored the works with his nutpick, closed the case, twisted the stem and handed it back. 'Remarkably very gently.' 'That's a fine movement—one of the best I've seen. But you'll have to wind it.'

You Auto Know

That, in addition to the visible and external parts of the car which need attention—parts which are marked with grease-cups, grease-gun connections and the like—there are also a number of other places which should be watched, particularly as these are out of sight and may therefore be easily forgotten. One of the most important of these is the 'universal joint,' where the load is very heavy and practically continuous.

Most cars are so constructed that the housings which cover this joint may be filled with heavy oil and then left alone for an indefinite period, depending upon the average mileage of the car. But this oil, like other lubricants, thins out in time and also becomes clogged with dust and particles of metal from the working parts. Care should therefore be taken to see that it is changed regularly, for damage to the universal joint means a considerable expense and loss of time for repairs.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Spark plug spares are frequently injured while being carried in the toolbox.

Gasoline saving requires well inflated tires, as loose underinflated tires use more power.

Remember that good oil is absolutely necessary for gasoline economy and it saves engine wear as well.

In filling the radiator of the car allow enough water to pass in it to bring the level over the end of the vent pipe.

Worn engine bearings can be detected by the oil gauge pressure. As the bearings wear the oil circulates more freely and the pressure drops.

Not all car owners know that pure rain water is the best that can be used in the cooling system. This is because it is free from mineral substances.

A convenient addition to the tool box is a small packet of wire nails of different sizes. These nails may be used to replace lost cotter pins and for many other purposes.

Keep watch of your wheels to see if they are thrown out of alignment by road shocks, wear, etc. The rear wheels should be absolutely parallel but the front wheels are never so.

When caught with all four wheels of the car on wet trolley tracks, the only safe way to get out without serious skidding is to slow down and sharply turn the front wheels to the right or left.

Where gear cases or differential housings are provided with vents to permit the escape of an under pressure that results from heating, care should be taken to see that the vents are kept free.

A common trick among those who ride in motor cars, which is nevertheless a bad practice is that of slamming the doors. Door slamming racks the hinges and loosens the door until it becomes wobbly and hangs loosely.

Wonderful Electric Lamp. An electric lamp which will burn for three years without current has been invented by an Italian engineer. The lamp is described as a self-sustaining incandescent electric light that will burn a long time without connection with any source of electric supply other than itself. The light itself is radiated from a minute metal

Feeds Upon Gold.

There are several kinds of perch as well as the black striped green one with the red fins lads like to catch but hate to scale. One of them is called the Aspio, or to give him his proper name the perca aspera, though the fishermen of the Rhone in Europe where he lives and swims call him the Wizard. It is a pretty yellow fellow, something like our dore, wall-eyed pike or pike perch, or more like the small daddy-ruffs English boys know about. The peasants of the Rhone valley persist in maintaining that the Wizard feeds upon grains of gold. It picks up from the sand of the river bed!

Origin of Flavors

Among the most remarkable glimpses into hidden corners of nature that scientific advance has afforded are the frequent discoveries of micro-organisms in unexpected places where they produce phenomena heretofore supposed to rise from other causes. For instance a scientist in Upsala, Sweden, ascertained that in preparations of meat and fish containing salt to the amount of 15 per cent, micro-organisms grow luxuriantly, and he concludes that the flavors and odors that are peculiar to various salt conserves are due to the micro-organisms with which they are crowded.

World's Oldest Museum.

The oldest museum in the world may be found in the city of Hara, the former capital of Japan. Since its foundation in 756 it has gone through all the changes of the Japanese empire without a single addition to its collection. The museum contains about 9,000 articles which are said to be among the most beautiful specimens of decorative work which have ever been produced by human hand. The museum is opened on only one day of the year when an official committee makes a visit of inspection to see that the collection remains intact.

In the Airy Days.

We have always held that Charles Wooster broke the western record when he broke prairie one summer in the early '70s, toggled out in blue denim, going barefooted and wearing a silk tie, but the Atchison Globe tells of a man named Paswell who in 1860 came into possession of a clawhammered suit sent in a "relief" box from Boston and wore it all summer for every day on the farm. He wore his overalls to church—Nebraska State Journal.

WESTON ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

Ending 495 Mile Hike—Brass Band Greeted Veteran and Marches With Him to City Hall.

Striding through the crowds assembled in City Hall park to watch the world series bulletin boards, Edward Payson Weston, the famous walker, now in his eighty-fourth year, completed on Friday a 495 mile jaunt, begun Labor Day, from Buffalo to New York city. A brass band preceded the white haired champion into the city hall, where he was received by Murray Hubert, president of the board of aldermen.

The champion's total walking mileage over his long career today was more than 85,000 miles in this country, and 7,500 miles in England.

CURRENT OFFERINGS

AT THE THEATRES

Delightful romance, the lively, entertaining caprices of five orphaned children, and the thrills of a battle between Mexican bandits and a small army of defenders, for the possession of a silver mine, are highly picturesque features of "The Bachelor Daddy" showing at Keeney's for the last time tonight. Monday William Farnum in "Shackles of Gold" from the modern society drama "Sampson" by Henri Bernstein.

Rudolph Valentino and Dorothy Phillips in "Once to Every Woman" is the big photoplay production at the Auditorium tonight also a Century comedy. Monday "The Price of Youth."

Today there is a double feature bill at the Orpheum Theater in conjunction with "The Price of Youth." Coming all next week Eddie Collins' Musical Stock Revue in a first class up-to-date miniature musical comedy company which includes beauty, youth, talent, mirth, melody and pretty girls. New music, new songs, new faces.

Can Fish Hear?

Fish have no ears, but there is no doubt that they can detect sounds. It is probable that they feel the vibrations which sounds set up in the water, by means of a sensitive nerve that runs down each side of their bodies.

"WHAT TO SELECT"

"One prominent investor maintains a complete organization under shrewd financial analysts. These experts spend their time combing the security markets for suitable investments, making changes from one security to another to meet changing conditions." Few people can afford that arrangement. The average investor can obtain personal service through a completely equipped investment house.

PHILIP ELTING MAY BE COLLECTOR OF THE PORT

The collectorship of the port of New York, a position made vacant several months ago by the death of George W. Aldridge of Rochester, may go to Philip Elting of Kingston, Republican leader of Ulster county, according to gossip in the capital Friday, says the Albany Knickerbocker Press. Thaddeus C. Sweet of Phoenix, Oswego county, has been considered as the most likely recipient of the appointment, but it is said former Speaker Sweet is not seeking the position and it is willing it should go to Mr. Elting.

Mr. Elting is friendly with United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and United States Senator William M. Calder and also is on friendly terms with other state leaders. Mr. Elting is known as a political power in the Hudson valley.

The only federal appointment Mr. Elting has held was that of commissioner of shipping in New York harbor several years ago.

JOHN NANBRO, Who SLASHED MALONE, LUCKY INDIVIDUAL.

John Nanbro, the Italian who slashed Eugene Malone, another Italian, about the face the other night, is a lucky individual, for Friday morning in police court Malone withdrew the complaint and Judge Groves dismissed Nanbro. From the story as told, about four years ago Malone slashed Nanbro about the face, leaving marks of the wounds that exist to this day. The other evening Nanbro caught sight, for the first time since the slashing, of Malone and walking into Present's five and ten cent store on lower Broadway he proceeded to carve Malone. Malone had his wounds treated at the Kingston City Hospital. They were not serious but will leave some ugly scars on his face.

SOMETHING ABOUT RELISHES

It is a mistake to taboo pickles and relishes from the menu entirely because they are supposed to be unhealthful. A moderate use of such things adds to the pleasure of eating and relieves monotony.

The use of alum for pickling is both unnecessary and injurious and never use a metal spoon in any vinegar solution—even a few minutes will spoil the flavor and longer will prove harmful and even dangerous. A wooden spoon or an agate one is best, though the agate if tapped on the side of the kettle is apt to chip off and that, too, is unsafe.

Fruit to be pickled loses its crispness if scalded and as that is the chief charm of a good pickle it should be avoided.

Since vinegar and spices and salt are the important ingredients to use in pickling it is wise to choose the best. Many an otherwise delicious combination has been ruined by poor or badly flavored vinegar and insipid spices. It pays, even if at a greater cost, to buy a standard and reliable article.

For those who like a snappy cucumber pickle try these. Into a large jar put a cupful of salt, a half-cupful each of sugar and mustard and a quart of vinegar. Drop the well washed cucumbers into the vinegar daily as they are picked, keeping them covered with the vinegar. Seal in jars and they will keep a year, crisp and good-flavored. A bag of spices and an onion may be used for variety.

Ripe Cucumber Pickles—Cut the ripe cucumbers in halves lengthwise. Cover with salted water and heat gradually, then let stand for an hour or two. Remove and chill in ice water. Make a sirup by boiling two pounds of sugar one pint of vinegar, two table-spoonfuls each of whole cloves and cinnamon tied in a cloth. Add the cucumbers to a jar and pour over the boiling hot sirup. Roll the sirup for three successive mornings.

Why Suffer With Goitre?

Goitre is due to abnormal gland activity. It causes a disfiguring enlargement of the neck, and claims both men and women among its victims, but in a majority of cases women are the sufferers. No disease is more of a scourge to women because of its disfiguring possibilities.

Goitres are of either the fibrous or watery type. The cause of either type lies in the disturbed action of spinal nerve impulses, due to pressure upon the spinal nerves at the spinal nerve openings. This pressure is removed by chiropractic spinal adjustments, and Nature, being given a chance, restores normal glandular action. The watery type responds more quickly to adjustments. The fibroid or hard goitre responds more slowly.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ZOO NEWS

The animals and birds of the zoo sent these notes by the Breeze Brothers to the Fairy Queen so they could be put in the latest copy of the Natureland News.

Mr. Gray Tournee from South America is a good-sized bird. He wears a handsome comb upon his head of gray feathers. And he has a voice which sounds almost like a person who is saying "Oh" in a very distressed manner. This is just his tone of voice. It does not mean that he is sad or distressed at all.

Two Grizzly Bears from Alaska have been enjoying their bathing pool of late. They like to duck their heads in it as well as splash with their feet and make a great deal of water commotion.

Sometimes one of them will go into his den for a quiet, cool rest and when he comes out again how the children do shriek with delight to see him appearing just as though he were in the wilds and were coming out from the rocks.

Mr. Peacock says he struts about in front of the bears so that people will notice him and will not give all their attention to the bears.

The Gray Tree Frog family from Europe are to be seen on shrubs and small trees in their zoo home. They are very small and quite a pretty gray color. They like to fasten themselves upon the branches of trees and shrubs and they look like so many stars upon a stairway, one after the other perched upon the upstanding branches.

If they were moving they would look like moving stairways, but staying so still as they do they look like a stairway of quiet frogs.

The Two-Headed Lizard has another companion with him now. For a while he was alone in his two-headed glory.

He has a tail which looks just like another head. In fact if you don't look at him too closely you would not be able to tell the difference between his head and his tail.

Of course he has only one head for eating and seeing and all such important things, but he can walk the other way too.

He has always said that it made it particularly nice for him if he wanted to change his mind, for if he thought he wanted to go in one direction and then decided he wanted to go in another he could do this so easily.

He says he puzzles many who come to the zoo. His body is shaped the same way at one end as at the other.

In fact when he is really going backward no one could tell the difference between that and going forward.

The new relative who has come to the zoo looks a little more like a creature with a head and a tail shaped like a head than actually like a creature with two heads.

"He Struts About."

But the two-headed lizard who has been in the zoo for some time looks so much as though he had two heads that it is very confusing.

When the keeper takes him up and he turns his body so the head and tail are almost beside each other, then it is hard to tell which is the real head.

The two-headed lizard comes from Australia and is far, far larger than any of the lizards around these parts, but he will not do any harm, he says. The White Handed Gibbon from the Malay Peninsula enjoys swinging from one swing to another in his zoo house. He says those who have watched him have spoken of his gracefulness and how easily and lightly and beautifully he swings.

The Hooleck Gibbon says he too is graceful and that he can move his long, black body with much ease.

His home was in the northerly forests of Burma in India. There his family live and it is said that they will live long, for they are far away from any who would hurt them.

They love the wilds of these forests, but Hooleck Gibbon says he is quite happy in the zoo.

The Macaw family and their relatives and cousins have all been sitting in a row out of doors during the summer and early autumn months. They say that their colors, blue and orange and red and green, have been much admired and that people have said that these colors looked so gay and lovely with the background of trees and grass.

They have each had their food and water cup beside them and with the fresh air about them and visitors to admire them they have had a pleasant summer.

The Perilous Journey of Heat.

Your coal goes into your furnace, but what becomes of the heat?

How much of it ever reaches your radiators? Is most of it lost by radiation from bare or poorly insulated pipes?

This loss may be easily prevented. Have us insulate the heating pipes with Johns-Manville Improved Asbestocel and this wasted heat will be saved.

We have been selected as dealers for Improved Asbestocel because we can trace heat losses and apply the remedy. Have us inspect your heating system. We will show you many ways to get more heat from less fuel. Ask for booklet "Bare Pipes Waste Fuel."

HOW "WJZ" GETS RETURNS:
RADIO BRINGS BAT'S CRACK

Radio fans are more enthusiastic than ever as their pet instruments report the World's Series. One man here has a set over which he and others hear the bang at the Polo Grounds, the crack of the bat as it meets the ball, loud comments of rooters, and the raucous voice of the peanut vender. These returns come from "WJZ" Newark, to which the Western Union explains it furnishes returns on the same wire that serves Kingston. This radio enthusiast, who was in New York Wednesday, has learned that there is a microphone at the Polo Grounds into which Grandland Rice or W. O. McGeehan, the famous sports writers, dictate the plays, their words being transmitted to "WJZ" over a private wire and into the broadcasting apparatus by which they are automatically and instantaneously sent to all points of the compass.

COMMUNITY SUCCAH RECEPTION TO AT ELLENVILLE FATHER CHAPMAN

There will be a gala event at Ellenville, Tuesday, October 10, beginning at 1:30 p. m., on the home grounds of the Jewish Agricultural Society, next to the synagogue, 36 Center street. It will be a Jewish Farmers' Succah celebration, being a community succah. The speaker of the day will be Rabbi S. Graubart, whose subject will be "Agriculture, Past and Present." Other speakers will be Charles Slutzky, the pioneer farmer; Anna C. Brenner, R. N., Council of Jewish Women; L. S. Reiner, special county agent; Dr. S. Goodwin, sanitary supervisor Jewish Agricultural Society; H. J. Levine, manager Ellenville Branch, Jewish Agricultural Society. Meyer Rosenbath is the chairman of the celebration committee. Jewish people and all others are invited to come and bring their families and neighbors.

At St. James's Church.

"This Freedom—Home and Family Life," will be the subject of the sermon by Dr. Baragwanath in the St. James Methodist Church on Sunday night. This will be the first in a series of "Talks on Great Books." One of the speakers at the morning service will be W. H. Van Benschoten, the late Theodore Roosevelt's lawyer in the famous trial a few years ago. He is an eloquent and convincing speaker. "Rally day" will be observed in the Sunday school.

Three Compensation Cases.

Referee James S. Whipple, of the state compensation department of the state industrial commission, was at the court house Friday morning, having three adjourned cases on his calendar.

A largely attended reception was held Thursday night at Holy Cross house for the Rev. Andrews Chapman, who has recently come to Holy Cross parish as assistant to Father Mabry. During the evening several hundred parishioners called to greet the new-comer, as well as many clergy from neighboring towns and villages, who wished to welcome him. Assisting Fathers Mabry and Chapman in receiving the guests were the Rev. Roger B. T. Anderson, O. H. C., from the West Park Monastery, the Rev. Edward H. S. Knapp, of St. John's, and John E. Kraft, senior warden of Holy Cross. The various guild rooms were beautiful with bouquets of varicolored dahlias, while the main hall was an artistic triumph in autumn foliage, Michaelmas daisies, potted palms and hundreds of dahlias. The young people of the parish enjoyed dancing throughout the evening to the excellent music furnished by Balte's orchestra. Refreshments were served from a great floral bower.

Road Nearing Completion.

The concreting of the new state road from New Paltz to Highland was practically finished on Wednesday. The last lap between the trolley tracks up the hill to Sunset Inn has been finished. The curb on the north side of the street from the library to the trolley station is now under construction and it is the hope that in a few days the entire road from New Paltz to Highland will be thrown open to public travel. Building guide rails and trimming shoulders is in process along the whole route.

$1,441,486 A YEAR'S DISASTER RELIEF COST

Red Cross Aided 145,000 Victims in United States—Losses Total $30,000,000.

Seventy-two disasters, with hundreds reported killed and injured, and more than 145,000 either homeless or requiring assistance, called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,441,486 30 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, according to a statement based on the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. The greatest toll of life was taken by hurricane and tornado, while the overflowing of rivers, the breaking of dams and torrential rains drove the greatest number of people from their homes. The property loss was estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The year's disasters reported included twenty-six floods, nineteen tornadoes, fifteen fires, four epidemics, two theatre collapses, two bridge collapses (one an alrshp), and a bridge collapse, mine explosion, railway collision, and a drought. Of the floods in the United States that at San Antonio, Texas, caused the greatest property loss, $6,000,000 and the high mark of fatalities, 100, while the flood in the vicinity of Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., forced 51,000 persons from their homes.

A National Calamity In the Red Cross disaster relief records there will probably remain for many years one calamity which touched nearly every state with a sense of horror and of loss. This was the distressing collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C., resulting in ninety-six deaths and 125 persons injured. Situated in the center of the beautiful Northwest residential section, this motion picture theatre was patronized by many persons of prominence both in the official and civil life of the National Capital, whose family and personal connections radiated out over the entire country. The horror was intensified by a terrific snowstorm which, though it retarded, did not block Red Cross relief.

Airship Crash Finds Aid at Hand The crash and destruction of the U. S. Army's large airship Roma in Virginia last February with the loss of 34 officers and men and 11 injured was the first disaster of its kind to call for Red Cross relief in this country. The suddenness of the accident tested the preparedness of the organization and of the Chapter at Hampton, Va., but the response was immediate and relief furnished the survivors, also funds for the expenses of relatives of the dead, who came from long distances to claim their own.

In the year's overseas record for aid rendered by the Red Cross are two fires in the Philippines, one in Manila, which destroyed 1,000 homes, with a loss of $1,500,000 and 5,000 persons made homeless, the other at Tondo, which drove 3,000 from their dwellings. In medical relief that was quick and effective the smallpox epidemic in San Domingo, which had a total of 22,000 cases with 225 deaths in a single day, tested the readiness of the Red Cross for action, and the same can be said of the San Domingo hurricane, which killed 12 persons and reduced the homes of 182 persons to wreckage. A flood in San Salvador, with a death toll of 50 and 2,000 refugees, was also effectively handled by the local Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Relief Machinery Perfected The year has seen the further perfection of disaster relief administrative measures in every field of American Red Cross activity, and that the work may be carried on to still greater accomplishments the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during the annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from Armistice Day (November 11) to, and including, Thanksgiving Day (November 30).

Red Cross Roll Call Heard World Around

The Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross for registration of the membership for 1923 will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and close on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The ground work for this stupendous task of re-enrolling the membership throughout the world has been laid in a plan for the first complete and comprehensive system of registration of the Red Cross membership in all its 3,300 active chapters at home and abroad.

An important feature of the round-the-world Roll Call campaign will be a universal effort to re-enlist the service of war-time Red Cross workers in the peace program by their participation in the Roll Call. In this way the vast army of volunteers will once more affiliate with the work of the Red Cross in its manifold phases. Cooperation also has been assured by Government and private maritime interests in a deep-sea Roll Call that is designed to reach every member or potential member in every part of the world who may be en voyage or temporarily in any port.

Thousands of Chapters will adopt the home canvass plan of enrollment which originated in Pittsburgh, where last year it resulted in a membership increase of 50 per cent. All records in this year's campaign will be kept on standard size cards to be filed by each Chapter for future use.

FOR GOVERNOR NATHAN L. MILLER

Consistent plugging in the school of hard knocks after an elementary course on the farm and in the "little red schoolhouse" is the secret back of the success in the life of Nathan L. Miller.

Other men have climbed the ladder of life step by step from humble beginnings, yet the story never loses its interest. It involves in nearly every case the same elements, a patient and courageous fight against adversity, skill in seizing opportunity and qualities which win confidence and trust.

These are the steps in the ladder of success climbed by Nathan L. Miller, steps that may be mounted by anyone who has the pluck and tenacity:

At 19—Graduated from Cortland Normal College.

Taught public school for three years.

At 27—Began the study of law.

Served six years as school commissioner from 1898 to 1899.

At 28—Married Miss Elizabeth Davenport, one of the cultivated women who taught for him in the Marathon Academy.

At 33—Appointed state comptroller to succeed Erastus Knight. Elected to that office in 1902 by the largest plurality of any candidate on the Republican ticket.

At 35—Designated as state comptroller to become justice of the supreme court.

At 37—Designated to the appellate division, second department, where he served five years.

At 42—Designated to the appellate division, first department, upon the request of the justices of that court.

At 45—Designated in 1913 to the court of appeals at the request of Judge Edgar M. Cullen, chief judge of the court.

At 47—Resigned from the court of appeals to resume the practice of law.

At 52—Chosen president of the New York State Bar Association in January, 1920, and in the fall of that year elected governor of the state of New York.

This is the bare outline of Governor Miller's life; but it does not tell the whole story. He was one of the ablest and best controllers the state ever had; one of the soundest, greatest, hearted, human judges who ever sat on the bench of the court of appeals, and had become the leading lawyer of the state.

As a judge he displayed an exceptionally human bent, a tenderness born of his early struggles and his human sympathies which gave his mind the human angle on the question of labor and human rights.

Judge Miller wrote the opinion sustaining the constitutionality of the present workmen's compensation act (215 N. Y. 514), although the same court had held a previous act unconstitutional in 1910.

In another case he wrote the opinion holding this law applicable to longshoremen (215 N. Y. 529), although the United States Supreme Court later reversed the ruling by a vote of 5 to 4.

Convinced that human life must be conserved, Judge Miller concurred in the decision upholding the law which forbids night work for women (214 N. Y. 393), as well as in the decision sustaining the law requiring one day of rest in seven (214 N. Y. 121).

He has crowned his career by serving the public as one of the most distinguished and ablest governors in the history of the state, and the story of his life for the past two years has been closely knit with the welfare and progress of the Empire State. His strong personality has stamped itself on every feature of the administration. That same human sympathy and sound common sense which marked his career as a judge have been developed tenfold by his wider field of activity as governor of the state.

The labor legislation passed by the legislature at his special instance and request has been approved by the official representatives of the labor organizations, and his attitude toward the anti-strike bill and the repeal of the full crew law accomplished the defeat of both those measures.

Under Governor Miller the legislatures of 1921 and 1922 passed more and better welfare legislation than ever before in the history of the state.

FOR U. S. SENATOR WILLIAM M. CALDER

No men in the United States senate have stood more consistently behind President Harding in the difficult task of stabilizing the country during post-war conditions and restoring public morale and sound credit after the strain and stress of the war and the long period during which the country was kept out of peace by the Wilson administration than Senators Calder and Wadsworth.

Mr. Wadsworth was re-elected two years ago, and it is now the duty of the Republicans of this state to support the President and give aid and comfort to his administration by the re-election of Mr. Calder. Though a Brooklyn man, he never forgets that he is a representative of the whole state and has a ready ear and a devotion to service for any man who needs a friendly greeting and personal attention at the national capital. He always answers his letters, he is always on the job. He is as ready and willing to back up the humblest citizen in his just claims as he has proved himself to be the ardent supporter of the President.

Senator Calder rose from humble beginnings and is proud of it. He is a successful business man and has no reason to be ashamed of it, for he has not climbed to success upon the shoulders of the "goats in the well." He is the strongest and most popular right in his home district, where his neighbors know him and touch elbows with him. They have watched him in his career "from night school to the United States senate," and here is one prophet who has honor in his own country.

William M. Calder was born in Brooklyn March 3, 1860. At the age of thirteen he was an apprentice in his father's carpenter shop. His first pay was 35 cents a week.

At the age of twenty he was selected outside superintendent for his father, Alexander G. Calder, who at that time had become one of Brooklyn's prominent builders. When young William Calder was twenty-one years old he began to build houses on his own account, and since then he has erected nearly 4,000 buildings himself in Brooklyn.

While working as an apprentice he attended Cooper Institute and the Brooklyn Evening High School, and thus he laid the foundation for his success as a business man.

After serving as the head of the Brooklyn building department in 1902-1903 he was elected to Congress in 1904 and re-elected in 1905-1908-1910 and 1912. In 1910 he was the only Republican elected from the city of New York. In 1912 he was the only Republican elected to any office in the state south of the Putnam county line. In 1916 Senator Calder was elected a United States senator, receiving a majority of 234,000 votes.

In this way Senator Calder has not only built houses, but he has built by his years of public service state-wide and nation-wide confidence in himself as a representative of the people in the Congress and senate of the United States.

Highways.

Under the former Democratic administration roads were liberally promised, but seldom built. Under Governor Miller rapid progress in road building has been made. In 1921, 632 miles of roads were completed. During that year $28,775,806 was expended for construction, re-construction and maintenance as against $14,670,035 in 1920. To supervise practically double the road work of the year previous the engineering cost increased only one-quarter.

At present nearly 1,000 miles of road construction are under contract, involving an expenditure of $20,470,833, and last year's mileage record promises to be exceeded.

To insure that each highway receives proper maintenance a patrol system has been re-established to keep the roads in condition for travel at all times.

NOTWITHSTANDING THIS, THE STATE'S HIGHWAY SYSTEM IS IN A BETTER CONDITION THAN IT HAS BEEN SINCE THE WAR.

FOR SEC. OF STATE SAMUEL J. JOSEPH

Bronx county is the home of Samuel J. Joseph, the candidate for secretary of state. It has always been regarded as Democratic territory, and has seldom received recognition from the Republican leaders; but in the last gubernatorial election it gave Governor Miller 43,000 votes, more than he received from any of the up-state counties save Erie, Monroe, Onondaga and Westchester.

One of the young men who have helped to build up the Republican organization in what has been thought a barren field was Mr. Joseph, who has been active as a district leader and preached good Republican doctrine with effective results.

A graduate of De Witt Clinton High School and New York Law school Mr. Joseph has practiced his profession at 280 Broadway for the last ten years achieving an early success where too many have to wait for advanced age before receiving deserved recognition.

During the war Mr. Joseph served as chairman of local Draft Board, No. 3, of his county, and later resigned to enlist in the naval service as seaman, quietly doing his bit in the hour of his country's need.

At the close of the war he resumed the practice of his profession and will bring to the office of Secretary of State a sound business judgment and a knowledge of the law requisite for the proper administration of that office, and the various boards and commissions of which he will be a member by virtue thereof. These include the Canal Board, State Board of Canvassers, Board of Equalization and commissioners of the Land office and Canal fund.

Mr. Joseph has a genial personality as well as a quick and comprehensive mind and his selection by his party for the office of Secretary of State should be triumphantly endorsed at the polls.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL ERSKINE C. ROGERS

A man of force and grit and super-abundant energy is Judge Erskine C. Rogers, of Washington county, the candidate for Attorney General. He comes of fighting stock, for his father, Col. James C. Rogers fought in the Civil War in command of the famous One Hundred and Twenty-third New York, recruited from Washington county. Judge Rogers was born in Sandy Hill, at his father's homestead in 1878 and was graduated from Union College and Albany Law school, the latter in 1902, when he took the Parker prize for highest standing in his class.

He acquired an extensive practice almost as soon as he was admitted to the bar and after ten years of success in his profession was appointed district attorney of his county by Governor Hughes, to which office he was re-elected in 1912.

The state investigations revealed irregularities in the building of the prison at Comstock, and the duty of prosecuting what became known as the Great Meadow graft cases was thrown upon him in his capacity as district attorney. He proceeded with energy and zeal and his conduct of these intricate cases against some of the ablest counsel in the state won him wide recognition as an able and fearless public official.

It was in recognition of these services that he was appointed county judge of Washington county in 1915 and since that date he has been twice re-elected to that position, with the endorsement of all political parties.

The office of attorney general of the State of New York requires that peculiar combination of talent as a lawyer and the equitable temperament of the judge, for the attorney general is the legal adviser of the state as well as its prosecuting officer, and is called upon to write opinions as well as to try cases.

For a man who has won such distinction in life Judge Rogers is still young, only forty-four, and will bring to the administration of his office demonstrated ability and proved integrity.

FOR COMPTROLLER WILLIAM J. MAIER

The sober qualities of an efficient business man and financial expert have gradually won for William J. Maier, the candidate for state comptroller, a pre-eminent position among men of affairs who understand the intricate details of the business of the state. He succeeded to the comptrollership by appointment on the death of Comptroller Wendell, under whom he served as chief deputy.

He was born at Seneca Falls September, 1876, and was graduated from Albany Law School with the class of 1900. Mr. Maier first became a candidate for public office in 1904, when he was nominated for member of assembly by the Republican party, and afterwards elected to represent Seneca county in the lower branch of the state legislature. Renominated in 1905, Mr. Maier was returned to the legislature. He retired in 1907 to enter the investment business, and it was not until 1913 that he again consented to become a candidate for any public office.

That year he was nominated and elected member of assembly and again in 1914 and 1915, receiving the latter year the largest plurality ever given a candidate in Seneca county.

In 1916 Mr. Maier as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that year, acting with Senator Sage, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, reduced the total general budget appropriations $4,503,521.78 from the appropriations of the previous year, and as a consequence no direct state tax was levied during that period.

The bills creating the present budget law were introduced by Senator Sage in the senate and by Mr. Maier in the assembly and were passed, requiring legislative budget committees to prepare and submit the budget to the legislature in final form not later than March 15.

Mr. Maier resigned from the legislature in November of that year to accept the appointment of deputy state fiscal supervisor. Five months later he resigned this position and accepted the appointment as deputy state comptroller and was promoted on January 1, 1921, to first deputy. Upon the death of State Comptroller James A. Wendell, May 10, 1922, he became acting comptroller until appointed comptroller by Governor Miller to complete the unexpired term.

Comptroller Maier is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Seneca Falls and is a member of the Theta Delta Chi and Phi Delta Phi college and law school fraternities, the Fort Orange Club of Albany, the Ovasco Country Club of Auburn and Geneva Country Club. He is married, has two daughters and lives in Seneca Falls, where he has always maintained his residence.

On the retirement of Frank M. Williams as state engineer, after long and honorable service it was difficult to find a man who could fill his place acceptably, but the choice of the Republican convention finally fell upon Charles L. Cadle, of Rochester, who was appointed superintendent of Public Works by Governor Miller on January 19, 1922, and who has received wide recognition as an able and constructive executive for his record of accomplishment in putting the barge canal in a state of effective utility. Under his administration the traffic on the canal has increased several hundred per cent and with the opening of the new grain elevator in Brooklyn, constructed under his supervision, promises to become the waterway from the Great Lakes to the ocean it was originally designed to furnish.

Mr. Cadle is distinctly a practical traffic man with no experience in "politics" as such. He was born at Mentor, Ohio, March 10, 1879. Completing his academic education, Mr. Cadle entered Case School of Applied Science at Cleveland, Ohio, graduating from that institution in 1904 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. After leaving college, Mr. Cadle was associated with the Cleveland Railway Company until 1906, when he became manager of the Electric Railway Improvement Company at Cleveland. In 1907, he went to the Rochester (N. Y.) lines of the New York State Railways as electrical engineer and became chief engineer of the New York State Railways, operating in Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester, in 1917. Superintendent Cadle was appointed chief engineer of the New York and Harlem Railroad Company in 1919, in addition to his duties as chief engineer of the New York State Railways. He has been honored by the street railway profession with the office of first vice president of the American Electric Railway Association. Mr. Cadle is also president of the Clarke-Cadle Harmon Corporation of Rochester, N. Y.

FOR STATE TREASURER N. MONROE MARSHALL

A north-country banker is Mr. Marshall, of the David Harum type, shrewd, ruggedly honest, yet full of the milk of human kindness and that homely humor which makes a man lovable even by the envious.

He has served Franklin County as supervisor and county clerk. As adjutant for the Fidelity and Casualty Company he has done business in lovable even by the envious.

In 1897 he became manager of the Farmers' National Bank of Malone and the next year of the Peoples' National Bank of Malone. Four years later he became president of this institution and held this post until the present year, when he became president of the Malone Peoples' Trust Company.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1914 and has been twice re-elected. His experience and ability as a financier were at once recognized by his associates in the Senate, where he was given the chairmanship of the Committee on Banks, which he has held for six years, coming in contact with banks and bankers throughout the state.

He was also a member of the committees on finance, taxation and retrenchment and conservation and acquired a profound knowledge of state finance and the problems which post-war conditions present to the administration of government.

Mr. Marshall was elected State Treasurer two years ago by a flattering majority and brought to the administration of his office a native shrewdness and sound business judgment, together with a personality that wins and holds friends. His record in the office has been so highly satisfactory and so thoroughly in accord with the administration of the governor that his nomination was assured and his re-election a foregone conclusion.

THE CROWD THAT RUNS NEW YORK CITY WANTS TO RUN THE STATE!

FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR WILLIAM J. DONOVAN

The candidate for lieutenant governor comes from the extreme western part of the state in the person of William J. Donovan, otherwise known as "Fighting Bill Donovan," a man who modestly wears his distinguished service cross and his Croix de Guerre, as well as his three wound stripes tightly buttoned underneath his vest, having gone back to the practice of law after a brilliant war record.

Colonel Donovan was born in Buffalo January 1, 1883. After attending the public schools of Buffalo he was graduated at Columbia College in 1905, receiving the degree of A. B. and at the Columbia Law School in 1908 with the degree of L. I. B. He became chief clerk in the law office of Love & Keating at Buffalo and in 1912 formed the firm of Donovan & Goodyear with Bradley Goodyear at Buffalo.

During the concentration of troops on the Mexican border in 1916 Donovan was captain of Troop I, First New York Cavalry. At the outbreak of the World War he was made assistant chief of staff of the Twenty-seventh (New York) Division with the rank of captain. He was promoted to major and made adjutant of the Fifty-seventh Brigade, Twenty-seventh Division, and later major of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry (Sixty-ninth New York). At the battle of the Ourre Major Donovan's conduct of his battalion in combat was so excellent that it was later used as a model for battalion management in the school of the line of the American army.

The One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry was a part of the Rainbow Division and took part in practically all the major operations in which the American army was engaged. Major Donovan was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel and was in command of the regiment in the Argonne. He was later promoted to the rank of colonel and returned to the United States in command of the regiment. He received the Distinguished Service Cross twice, the Croix de Guerre twice, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion d'Honneur and the Italian War Cross.

After his return to the United States Colonel Donovan resumed the practice of law with the firm of Donovan & Goodyear.

Early in 1922 he was appointed United States attorney for the western district of New York. In that capacity he handled very important cases for the government, including one that attracted particularly wide attention throughout the country. This was a conspiracy case involving the robbery of railroads. In these cases Colonel Donovan was successful in securing convictions, and since that time railroad robberies in his district have fallen off 90 per cent. When Colonel Donovan took office there was a serious congestion of cases in the U. S. attorney's office, but he has succeeded in clearing up this congestion, although he has been in office only a short time.

Colonel Donovan was recently appointed general counsel for the New York state fuel administration. He is vice president of the Twenty-seventh Division Association and president of the Rainbow Division Veterans.

The candidate for lieutenant governor comes from the extreme western part of the state in the person of William J. Donovan, otherwise known as "Fighting Bill Donovan," a man who modestly wears his distinguished service cross and his Croix de Guerre, as well as his three wound stripes tightly buttoned underneath his vest, having gone back to the practice of law after a brilliant war record.

Colonel Donovan was born in Buffalo January 1, 1883. After attending the public schools of Buffalo he was graduated at Columbia College in 1905, receiving the degree of A. B. and at the Columbia Law School in 1908 with the degree of L. I. B. He became chief clerk in the law office of Love & Keating at Buffalo and in 1912 formed the firm of Donovan & Goodyear with Bradley Goodyear at Buffalo.

During the concentration of troops on the Mexican border in 1916 Donovan was captain of Troop I, First New York Cavalry. At the outbreak of the World War he was made assistant chief of staff of the Twenty-seventh (New York) Division with the rank of captain. He was promoted to major and made adjutant of the Fifty-seventh Brigade, Twenty-seventh Division, and later major of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry (Sixty-ninth New York). At the battle of the Ourre Major Donovan's conduct of his battalion in combat was so excellent that it was later used as a model for battalion management in the school of the line of the American army.

The One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry was a part of the Rainbow Division and took part in practically all the major operations in which the American army was engaged. Major Donovan was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel and was in command of the regiment in the Argonne. He was later promoted to the rank of colonel and returned to the United States in command of the regiment. He received the Distinguished Service Cross twice, the Croix de Guerre twice, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion d'Honneur and the Italian War Cross.

After his return to the United States Colonel Donovan resumed the practice of law with the firm of Donovan & Goodyear.

Early in 1922 he was appointed United States attorney for the western district of New York. In that capacity he handled very important cases for the government, including one that attracted particularly wide attention throughout the country. This was a conspiracy case involving the robbery of railroads. In these cases Colonel Donovan was successful in securing convictions, and since that time railroad robberies in his district have fallen off 90 per cent. When Colonel Donovan took office there was a serious congestion of cases in the U. S. attorney's office, but he has succeeded in clearing up this congestion, although he has been in office only a short time.

FOR STATE ENGINEER CHARLES L. CADLE

On the retirement of Frank M. Williams as state engineer, after long and honorable service it was difficult to find a man who could fill his place acceptably, but the choice of the Republican convention finally fell upon Charles L. Cadle, of Rochester, who was appointed superintendent of Public Works by Governor Miller on January 19, 1922, and who has received wide recognition as an able and constructive executive for his record of accomplishment in putting the barge canal in a state of effective utility. Under his administration the traffic on the canal has increased several hundred per cent and with the opening of the new grain elevator in Brooklyn, constructed under his supervision, promises to become the waterway from the Great Lakes to the ocean it was originally designed to furnish.

Mr. Cadle is distinctly a practical traffic man with no experience in "politics" as such. He was born at Mentor, Ohio, March 10, 1879. Completing his academic education, Mr. Cadle entered Case School of Applied Science at Cleveland, Ohio, graduating from that institution in 1904 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. After leaving college, Mr. Cadle was associated with the Cleveland Railway Company until 1906, when he became manager of the Electric Railway Improvement Company at Cleveland. In 1907, he went to the Rochester (N. Y.) lines of the New York State Railways as electrical engineer and became chief engineer of the New York State Railways, operating in Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester, in 1917. Superintendent Cadle was appointed chief engineer of the New York and Harlem

O'CONNOR DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR

Charles R. O'Connor of West Chestnut street has been appointed deputy fuel administrator of Ulster county by Alfred C. Chubb of Troy. The appointment was made on the recommendation of John D. Schoonmaker, fuel administrator of this county. There is a considerable amount of detail work connected with the office of fuel administrator which made the appointment of a deputy necessary.

Entertainment Committee Meeting

The members of the committee in charge of the recent entertainment and five hundred at K. of C. Hall, under the auspices of the Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a meeting on Thursday evening, October 12, at which time all members are requested to make report and returns for sales of tickets.

About the Folks

Ray Lang of Broadway, is in New York, attending the World's Series.

The birth of a daughter, Caroline, to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hornbeck, 19 Gill street, has been reported to the health board.

John Bartsch and Harold Boice, who have been spending a week in New York, and saw the first two games of the world series baseball games, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Melin, formerly of Albany avenue, have moved to their new home, 44 Montrose avenue, after spending one year visiting friends in Europe and this country.

Leslie Munson, the popular chauffeur, who has been confined to his home for several days, has recovered so as to attend his taxi service again. Mr. Munson got a hot cinder in his eye, but through the efficient care of Dr. Cranston, his eye sight has been saved.

GIANTS WIN THIRD GAME

The Yankees and Hoyt bowed to John Scott in the third game of the World's Series Friday. The veteran pitcher shut out the Yankees with their noted murderers row and laid them down with four hits. The McGraw men are now two to the good the second game of the series being called on account of darkness.

Yesterday's score:

	A. B.	R.	H.	E.
Yankees	30	0	4	1
Giants	31	3	12	1

Dance at Mann's Hall

At the usual week end dance at Mann's Hall this evening an added attraction there will be several novelty dances introduced. From week to week these dances are growing in popularity due to the excellent music of Balfe's orchestra.

RAINS THREATENS BUT GAME STARTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 7.—In a setting that had much of the visibility of lampblack in a coal hole, the Giant and Yankees were ready for the fourth game of the World Series this afternoon. The sky was subcolored and a light rain fell at intervals during the early morning hours but at ten o'clock upwards of 3,000 untrepid souls, the largest early rush of the series since the first day, had parked themselves outside the gates.

With the threat of rain and the series to date as one-sided as an oblong, the fans rose to the bait as though it was a morsel of dulcet sweetness. The outpouring under such conditions was a mute refutation of the charge that Manhattan was viewing the exclusive series with cold and academic indifference.

The gates were opened at 10:30 and with the band inappropriately playing "Some Sunny Day," the early birds fluttered over the bleachers and upper stands, leaving stretches of unoccupied seats very naked looking in their bareness. By noon, most of these had been swallowed up in the steady stream of humanity that had spread itself like an open fan across the elliptical stretches of the stands.

Although a slight flurry of rain was falling at the time, the Yankees appeared on the field ready for action at 12:45. The young men looked thoughtful and far from jaunty as they stalked across the enclosure and began batting practice. The fact that Joe Bush went out into left field to "shag" flies, was taken as meaning that he would not be Huggins's pitching nominee, in spite of the fact that the dark day was made to order for his fast ball.

Carl Mays, underhand member of the Yankee staff, took part in batting practice and it was assumed that he was Huggins's choice for mound duty.

That local sentiment had veered to the Giants in view of the latter's record of two victories and tie in three games played, was indicated when the McGraw entry came on the field at 1 o'clock. The Giants received what amounted to a near ovation, causing some of the Yanks near the home plate to smile sardonically. The baseball fan is notoriously fickle, a great fellow for climbing aboard the bandwagon.

At 1:55 there was every indication that the game would be begun on time.

Pastor And Wife Entertain

Dr. and Mrs. Baragwanath entertained the official board of St. James's Church at the parsonage on Friday evening. Almost every member was present. It was a most delightful affair socially. The meeting that followed the repast indicated that a spirit of unity characterized the official members, and there was exhibited a deep devotion to the church and the Kingdom of God. The various features of the work of the church were carefully considered and some plans were formulated. This is the centennial year of Methodism in Kingston, an event which will be fittingly observed.

Winners' Class to Serve Supper

The reports of the committees in charge of the chicken supper to be given on Wednesday evening, October 11, by the Winners' Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church indicate the most successful event of this kind ever given by this organization. Those who have been fortunate enough to enjoy previous occasions of this kind will anticipate this date with great pleasure. Supper will be served from 5:30 on until all are taken care of.

Dedrick Buys at West Hurley

William F. Dedrick, druggist on Wall street, has purchased from John H. Saxe, county clerk, a very desirable plot of ground on John street in West Hurley, 100x150 feet. It is located on the Ashokan Boulevard a short distance from the turn in the highway leading to Woodstock. It is understood that Mr. Dedrick will build a fine residence on the plot.

Mullen Struck a Boy

John Mullen reported to the police department Friday evening that his auto had struck a boy riding a bicycle at Broadway and Franklin street. He said that the boy had no light on his bicycle and that he was not badly hurt. The lad's name was unknown.

Dance at Port Ewen

The regular Monday night dance will be held at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, October 9. These dances are being held under new management and a good time is assured all who attend. Balfe's jazz orchestra of Kingston will furnish the music for dancing.

Police Find a Car

A Scripps-Booth automobile was found abandoned on Crown street Friday and taken to the Ulster Garage. The car had been left in the street Thursday night and was still there Friday afternoon when the police removed it.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The True Value of The Champion

A CAR that consistently outdistances any rival on the highway, irrespective of price or make, is surely a car of superb mechanical quality. This championship form is worth even more than the zest of victory in a brush between thoroughbreds, for better still, it is a guarantee of those enduring qualities that mean long life, untroubled mileage and economy of operation.

And there you have the secret of the extraordinary preference being shown for the Paige 6-66 in every corner of the land. The mighty 70-horsepower engine with its amazing speed and irresistible power, has won for the Paige the happy title of Master of the Highway, for here is a car that is always ready to meet all comers and will tackle the stiffest of grades with the utmost confidence.

Other vital features of design unite with this superb power plant. The 131-inch wheel base, the 118 feet of vibrant spring leaf, the perfect balance, the deep upholstering assure the utmost of comfort and ease of riding.

In the New Series 6-66 there are numerous improvements that make this fine car still finer. Examine any 6-66 model, ride in it, compare it with any other car in performance and equipment. Then look at the price-tag and we are content to leave the decision to you.

The complete Paige-Jewett lines of six-cylinder passenger cars offer a selection of thirteen models priced from $1995 to $3350. The complete line of Paige trucks meets every haulage need. They are sold and serviced by Paige dealers everywhere.

Doctor Declares Famine's Aftermath Must Be Wiped Out If Russia's Millions Saved By American Charity Are To Live

Russian Laborers Loading American Medical Supplies at Moscow For Distribution In Petrograd District. Inset: Col. Henry Beeuwkes, U. S. A. Chief, Medical Division, Russian Unit, A. R. A.

These Russian laborers in the medical warehouse of the American Relief Administration, Moscow, do not know the difference between the words "cat" and "dog," written in English. But show them shipping cases marked "quinine 100 bottles—250 pills" or "gauge compresses—1,000" or "thermometers" or "vaccines—500 units," and not only will they recognize them immediately, but will call them out in perfectly good English. The Russian checker, who has also learned to read and write these difficult English words, makes the proper entries as they shoot them out.

Colonel Henry Beeuwkes, chief of the Medical Division of the A. R. A., whose picture is inset above, has undertaken the distribution of $7,000,000 worth of army and American Red Cross supplies in one of the most far-reaching medical campaigns in relief history.

Cholera, typhoid, small-pox and tropical malaria—all of which annually exact a heavy toll of human lives in Russia—are being fought by an efficient corps of American medical personnel, assisted by hundreds of skilled Russian physicians. Ten million Russians have been inoculated against these diseases.

The aftermath of famine is the menace against which relief workers are fighting, according to Dr. Beeuwkes. Starvation and undernourishment have left the majority of the stricken sufferers in a precarious physical state and unless disease epidemics are stamped out the mortality rate this winter will be high, especially among those whom the A. R. A. has rescued from starvation.

In addition to its disease prevention campaign the Russian unit of the American Relief Administration, under the leadership of Colonel William K. Haskell, will continue to feed 1,300,000 children throughout the approaching winter. A few adults, including nursing mothers and hospital patients, will also be cared for with American food, but the nation-wide feeding program which on September 1st embraced 10,500,000 persons has been discontinued with the new harvest.

The famine self has been broken but the A. R. A., recognizing the suffering that will exist this winter, especially among doctors, nurses, teachers, and other professional classes, has continued the Food Relief system. Money will be accepted at 42 Broadway, the New York headquarters of the A. R. A., or at the request of the sender, be transferred in the form of food to designated persons or groups in Russia.

RED HOOK PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

Rube Forsyth Will Hurl For Colonials—World's Series Returns Will be Announced.

Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds the Red Hook team will again oppose the Colonials. Rube Forsyth will be on the mound for the local club and if he performs as well for the Schrickmen as he did when on the several occasions he opposed them a good game will result. Cracker Holden will probably be assigned the task for the visitors. Holden has pitched three games for the over the river boys against the local aggregation and won two of them. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

A happy additional attraction at the grounds on Sunday will be the first hand information about the big contest in New York. A radio phone has been installed besides a direct wire from the Western Union. No additional charge for these reports, which will be started promptly at 2 o'clock. Progress of the game will be announced between innings during the game.

WHAT THE RIVAL CAPTAINS SAY

Dave Bancroft, of the Giants.
"With two games tucked safely away, with our pitching in fine shape, and the support the mound-men get, the Glan's see nothing but victory ahead."

"Of course, there is never any certainty about a game before it is played. Breaks and luck have a way of upsetting even the best calculations. But we are confident." Everett Scott, of the Yankees.
"Our batting slump caused us to lose two games to the Giants. I am not alone on the team in feeling that we are going to come back. Everybody believes that. Our heavy hitting battery is going to come into action, I believe, and retrieve the lost advantage."

Ralph A. Day, Jr.

"BIJAH" RECALLS ACADEMY STUNTS

Bush Creek Story Reminds Him of Things That Happened at Old Kingston Academy Seventy Years Ago.

"That was quite a stunt those three boys did up in Bush Creek section so they could keep out of school that I read about in The Freeman Friday night," remarked Gilead A. Smith at the sheriff's office this morning. "Seventy years or more ago when I was a boy and old man Mac George ran Kingston Academy the boys were no different than they are today in scheming to get out of school. One time in winter some boys got into the Academy, filled the stove with wood started a fire, closed all the drafts and shut the windows down tight. When Principal Mac George came to the Academy the next morning the room was filled with smoke and the window panes were covered thick with soot so you couldn't see daylight, but the old man rang his bell as usual and then ordered Case Rooma, who was the janitor, to ring the bell. The scholars came, expecting that school would be let out, but although the boys coughed, and their eyes watered and smarted with the smoke, school was kept in, and worse of all Mr. Mac George said there would not be the usual recess that morning. With a red handkerchief thrown over a shoulder, with which he wiped his eyes, he kept the scholars at their books, and when school was let out that day a dirtier lot of boys with red eyes was never seen. The wood made the smoke all right but as the scheme failed the boys did not try that one again."

Other schemes tried by the boys of the Kingston Academy, one of which worked, were told about by Mr. Smith. Principal Mac George lived at the corner of Maiden Lane and Pine street, known for years since as the Teller house, and a number of the scholars boarded with him, among them being a boy named Dan Buckmaster. Mac George had three big black pigs which he kept in a pen at the end of the lot on Maiden Lane. One morning when there was a circus in town Buckmaster and some of the other boys loosened a couple of boards of the pig pen and let out the three pigs which they drove to a lot near Pettit's factory near Jacob's Valley. After school had opened Principal Mac George, not suspecting the boys, stated that his three black pigs had gotten out of the pen, and asked if any of the scholars had seen them. Instantly Buckmaster raised his arm and swanned his fingers and told the principal that he had seen them. He was let out and asked to see if he could find the pigs. Then all over the school room arms were raised by different boys who also said they had seen the pigs. After a time there were so many excused from classes that Principal Mac George let the school out early. Of course, the boys did not find the pigs and did not come back and so report, as they were too much interested in seeing the circus parade and hanging around Chipp's lot where the circus was. That evening about 6 o'clock Dan Buckmaster and some of the other boys could be seen marching up Pine street driving three black pigs to Principal Mac George's pig pen, they having gone to the lot where they had put them early that morning.

"Another time," said Mr. Smith, "Principal Mac George came to the school and after ringing his hand bell as was his custom, ordered the bell in the cupola rung, but it would not ring. It was a cold winter morning and investigation showed that someone during the night had turned the bell upside down, filled it with water and the water had frozen solid throughout the night. Then Principal Mac George rang his hand bell again and ordered the boys to their studies and classes and instead of having an excuse for not coming to school, because they didn't hear the bell ring, they shivered at their desks all day."

MORE NUTCHATTER BY GENE FOWLER

Mr. Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 7.—McCormick was umpire at the plate yesterday but where was Ganna Walska?

Before they donned their slate gray monkey suits in this year's series, Colonels Ruppert and Huston's hired men were known as the sluggers of baseball. Today they loom on the pastime's skyline as the sluggards of baseball.

Hence, we must take for serious discourse today the subject of sleep. For sleep it was that snored its utmost in Cogan's Pullman car yesterday. Sleeping Beauty, Alice in Wonderland, both were there.

We know what sleep does, but no theorist can claim, with any vestige of authority what sleep really is. Mark, in his famous essay, "It isn't Always the Endman in the Minstrel Show Who Has the Bones," said "Sleep that knits the raveled sleeve of care." Yesterday it was Witt who slept and he slumbered in the pastoral surroundings of first base. Rip Van Winkle turned over in his grave.

Witt—whose name seems more humorous than descriptive—half of whose baseball fame would be base dattery—sleep. No wonder he got hit with a pop bottle in St. Louis. Look at all the time a marksman would have to get a steady aim.

Some gallivanting and pranking tsetse fly must have nipped our pallid countenance—white-haired boy. Some gray sponge, saturated with dainty attar of chloroform, must have been dabbed against his nostrils before he went to first in the third inning and was caught napping.

They called the game the day before on account of darkness. They didn't dare call it yesterday on account of sleeplessness. There was no insomnia on Witt's part. His conscience—up to yesterday—must have been as clean as the clouds that kiss the mountain crest.

If the prize for the series were an alarm clock or a suit of pajamas which do you think Witt would select?

Let others tell you different—what lost the game for the Yanks was that same display of consciousness at its lowest ebb as presented by Mr. Witt in his own witty way. After that the Yanks cracked psychologically. Everybody began to boot the ball. Boot it? Yes, it was a soccer match and propaganda for the Step Over Shoe Company.

The next series—if the Giants and Yanks are the pick of the 1923 season's wozon—will be dreamed in Sleepy Hollow.

Weird things happened all through the game. Remember, however, that dreams are usually distorted. Don't read Freud on the subject.

Groh, with Babe Ruth thundering down the line to third in the fourth inning, thought he was a block signal on the long Island Railroad. Babe caught the relatively minute Mr. Groh full in front and carried him along like the pilot of the Twentieth Century locomotive would give a rabbit a free ride.

The fans joined in that antique anthem, "Men of Harlem Give Your Razz." They thought the Babe should have refrained from such an exhibition of conducting unbecoming a battering ram. But the master of territory held by the Sir Knight of the Thermos Flash Bat and My Lord (Groh) retired from the fray full sore.

The closely parked multitude emitted a rousing "Boo!" It was of the same vintage that on the day before had been zoomed over the head of Judge Keesaw Mountain Landis, czar of all the baseballs.

What a remarkably word is "Boo." Add a "k" to it and you have "book," something to enlighten in strict, entertain. Add a "b" to it and you have "hoob," something that makes you think of any man who pulls a coat over his head. Speaking of boos—

Oh, yes, somehow the highways and byways of that most astounding thing—and rare as well—the mind, take us back gently, softly, so as not to rouse the slumberer from his lassitude and lethargy to Whitey Witt. Must we speak of him again? Is not yesterday buried as Battling Siki wrote in his memoirs, "I made a plumber out of Carpenter," buried, interred, sepulchred, with the thousands of aeons that have gone before?

Lord Mountbatten, looking at Mr. Witt, remarked:
"How wide awake these Americans are."

My friend, the Americans ARE wide awake. But not the NEW YORK AMERICANS.

When the Best Brain Work is Done. In general people's mental activity varies from season to season in the same way as physical activity, but there is an interesting difference in one respect. In the latitude of New York, for example, people do the best brain work about the end of November or beginning of December, that is, a month or six weeks after their physical strength is greatest. In the spring, on the contrary, the best mental work is done in March, a month or two before the physical strength reaches the maximum. This means that people's minds are most stimulated in weather somewhat cooler than that which most stimulates their bodies. —From "Principles of Human Geography."
